

Certifications

Purpose

To delineate the responsibilities regarding certification courses.

Responsibilities

ACLS Provider

Residents will take ACLS course during the first year of Physician Assistant Residency orientation period, arranged by the residency. It is the resident's responsibility to maintain current certification thereafter as desired.

ATLS Provider

Residents will take ATLS course during the first year of Physician Assistant Residency orientation period or shortly after, arranged by the residency. . It is the resident's responsibility to maintain current certification thereafter as desired.

PALS provider

Residents will take PALS course during the first year of Physician Assistant Residency 1 orientation period, arranged by the residency. It is the resident's responsibility to maintain current certification thereafter as desired.

Date Last Updated: April 30, 2014