

Academic Resources for Residents

Purpose

To clarify the resources that the Residency provides for residents.

Background

The Emergency Medicine Residency Program believes that physicians must begin early to develop life-long learning and academic development skills.

Responsibilities

The Emergency Medicine Residency will be responsible for:

- Resident expenses as outlined in the policy below
- Providing time off for EM-1 SAEM conference

The Emergency Medicine Resident will be responsible for:

- Expenses exceeding the policy below
- Arranging time off for activities other than the EM-1 SAEM conference.
- Keeping current with residency requirements and promotion criteria. Residents can use up to 2 weeks of elective time for academic activities such as research presentation and national organization involvement

Policy

1. All Three Years: Subscriptions to Peer IX, ROSH Review, Membership to ACEP/EMRA, AAEM, SAEM (which includes subscriptions to EM-RAP, Annals of Emergency Medicine, Journal of Emergency Medicine and Academic Emergency Medicine).
2. All Three Years: support for national organization involvement --residents who are selected as resident representatives for national EM organizations (EMRA, AAEM, etc) or members on national EM committees (SAEM, ACEP, AAEM, CORD) can receive up to $1000.00 per academic year for expenses. Time off is to be arranged by the resident as stated above.
3. EM-1: An allotment of $100.00 may be used to buy the Comprehensive Study Guide or other emergency medicine educational material. ACLS, ATLS and PALS Provider Course costs are covered by the residency. $1200.00, which includes the registration fee, is provided for attendance at the SAEM conference with time-off.
4. EM-2: $300.00 used to purchase educational materials.
5. EM-3: $300.00 used to purchase educational materials.
6. Residents who are not meeting residency requirements are not eligible to use residency funds or excused time off for travel. Confirmation of good standing should be done before making travel arrangements.
7. The Department supports residents to present research and quality projects regionally and nationally. Arranging time off is the responsibility of the resident. Level of reimbursement is determined by the Research or Quality liaisons in conjunction with the residency. Funds may come from a combination of residency and departmental sources.
8. Resident participation at other national and regional conferences such as the ACEP Leadership and Advocacy meeting may be supported by residency and departmental funds. Arranging time off is the responsibility of the resident. The resident must be meeting all residency requirements, and funding will be addressed on a case by case basis.
