

Certifications

Purpose

To delineate the resident and program responsibilities regarding certification courses.

Responsibilities

ACLS Provider

Residents will take ACLS course during the EM-1 orientation period, arranged by the residency. ACLS certification lasts for 2 years. It is the resident's responsibility to maintain current certification thereafter as desired. This may require the resident arranging to take an ACLS class during the EM-3 year.

ATLS Provider

Residents will take ATLS course during the EM-1 orientation period or shortly after, arranged by the residency. ATLS certification lasts for 4 years. It is the resident's responsibility to maintain current certification thereafter as desired. ATLS must be completed prior to rotating in the SICU.

PALS provider

Residents will take PALS course during the EM-1 orientation period, arranged by the residency. PALS certification lasts for 2 years. It is the resident's responsibility to maintain current certification thereafter as desired. This may require the resident arranging to take a PALS class during the EM-3 year.

Date Last Updated: 6/8/18